The Secretaries' Award for Public-Philanthropic Partnerships

Housing and Community Development in Action

The Department of Housing and Urban Development and Department of Agriculture, in partnership with the Council on Foundations, announce the annual Secretaries' Award for Public-Philanthropic Partnerships as part of the Council's Fall Conference for Community Foundations. The Secretaries' Award for Public-Philanthropic Partnerships recognizes excellence in partnerships that have both transformed the relationship between the sectors and led to measurable benefits in terms of increased economic employment, health, safety, education, sustainability, inclusivity and cultural opportunities, and/or housing access for low and moderate-income families.

The mission of foundations is to support civil society and advance the common good. There is a foundation presence in most communities across the country. They are led by a board of trustees and staff who provide expert knowledge of the challenges and opportunities faced by the communities they serve. These human resources facilitate the capacity of foundations to provide leadership on issues like housing and community development. By strengthening the connection between the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), the Department of Agriculture (USDA), and philanthropy, this award highlights the power of collective impact that can be achieved through public-philanthropic partnerships between government entities and foundations.

Nature of the Award

This award emphasizes cross-sector partnerships between the philanthropic and public sectors. The goal is to recognize the partnership process and its impact as a community strategy to increase the quality of life for low and moderate-income residents across all American geographies — urban, suburban, and rural. Examples of desired nominations may include projects affiliated with housing and neighborhood improvements, education, health and recreation, transportation, community participation, arts and culture, safety, sustainability, innovative regional approaches, and economic development. Recognizing that foundations of all sizes partner with public agencies, the jury will take asset and staff size into consideration to ensure that the award recipients reflect a diversity of foundations.

Other details include:

- Awards will be given to foundations for completed or ongoing initiatives that are executed in partnership with any local, regional, or federal government. The initiative submitted should have been either (1) completed between June 10, 2013–June 10, 2014, or (2) if ongoing, in effect since at least June 10, 2013.
- Award winners from 2013 are ineligible to apply for one year following their award.

Awards will recognize foundations that have navigated cross-sector relationships and built a stronger effort than either partner could have produced alone.

Criteria for Judging

Five key criteria will drive the review process. Specific questions for each can be found on the application form:

I. Strength of the Cross-Sector Partnership (50 points).

The submission should demonstrate that the project utilized a cross-sector partnership to implement a successful initiative and must provide a detailed account of how partners were involved in each stage of the initiative. Submissions that can show proof of formal public-philanthropic partnership efforts and demonstrated changes and improvements are highly desired.

II. Place-Based Results (20 points). The submission should highlight the place-based nature of the foundation, the initiative's results, and a clear connection between the initiative's inputs and community outcomes, including how they have been or will be measured.

III. Sustainability (10 points). The submission should show how the effort has or will maintain a lasting impact in the community.

IV. Innovation (10 points). The submission should discuss how the project and/or its partnership components have been seen as innovative in the community and include supporting documentation to that effect, such as a letter of support, evaluation conclusions, or press coverage.

V. Transferability (10 points). The submission should suggest how the program can provide useful, prescriptive measures for other communities similarly situated to replicate or adapt.

Availability of Bonus Points

Bonus points are available for meeting the following additional criteria:

- Council on Foundations members in good standing in 2013 will receive 10 bonus points.
- Foundations with proof of current compliance with any accrediting body related to organizational performance or excellence will receive a maximum of 5 bonus points.
